The National Parole Resource Center (NPRC) is a partnership of the Center for Effective Public Policy (CEPP) and the Association of Paroling Authorities International (APAI) that is supported by a grant from the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA).

NPRC is pleased to announce that seven parole boards have been selected to receive technical assistance regarding their strategic planning efforts. The goal of this assistance is to aid Boards in their desire to identify key areas in need of attention, develop consensus, and help stimulate meaningful changes in their policies, procedures, and methods.

The seven selected boards are:

- Idaho
- Kentucky
- Oklahoma
- Oregon
- Utah
- Vermont
- Washington

NPRC is pleased to be able to work with participating boards to strengthen practice in areas such as: utilizing new assessment tools, the effective use of guideline tools, developing new approaches to the imposition of conditions, exploring alternatives to revocation, creating performance measures, improving collaboration with key criminal justice partners, and a variety of other topics.

This assistance will be provided in 2017-2018. Any questions about this effort can be directed to NPRC Project Manager Leilah Gilligan at 301-589-9383 or lgilligan@cepp.com.
